

Annual General Meeting of LOSURS, Inc.

Sunday, October 26th, 2003

Candidates for the Board of Directors

- Harnish, Garrett Garrett has been a member of LOSURS since its formation, and even has a membership number of “3” to prove it. Garrett was also a part of the Core Working Group, the group that took care of the day-to-day operation and planning for LOSURS until the creation of the interim Board of Directors last year. Garrett also served as Secretary for the interim Board, taking an active role in the drafting of the bylaws and other incorporation tasks. A tireless worker, Garrett’s contributions over the years have been invaluable; it is doubtful if the group would ever have made it to this point without his efforts.
- Humphreys, Mark Mark is one of only two people with a lower membership number than Garrett. Those of you who attend meetings regularly will no doubt be familiar with the fact the Mark is the one responsible for the “LOSURS” name. Mark was heavily involved in defining the initial structure and direction for LOSURS through its formative months, and later became an important member of the Core Working Group. Mark also currently serves as the President of the Regina PC Users’ Group (PCUG), our sister group which still meets in the familiar room at SIAST.
- Machan, Doug Doug’s smiling face has been a regular feature of our meetings for some time now, but it was at the Expo last November that Doug first “threw his hat into the ring of support,” participating in the Expo planning meetings, volunteering at the GIMP booth, and helping out anywhere else he could. Now Doug would like to throw his hat in again, contribute more to the group.
- Mack, Kevin Kevin Mack has been a member of LOSURS for over four years, and in that time, he’s solved many, many people’s problems, and made several presentations at our meetings. Kevin is always willing to help out fellow LOSURS, whether that means visiting them and helping them to fix their Linux problems in person, or volunteering to captain three separate booths at the Expo. And now Kevin wants to help out even more, by serving on next year’s Board of Directors.
- Rothecker, Chris Chris has been serving as the liaison to ROSPA (the Regina Open Source Professional Association) on the interim Board of Directors. Chris is an avid Open Source advocate and has been involved in several Open Source projects in one way or another. Most notable of these is his contribution to the AIX port of NetSaint. He greatly enjoys helping to enlighten the corporate world by encouraging the use of Open Source and Open Standards.
- Worrall, Stacey Stacey has been a member of LOSURS since 1999, but first became more actively involved in LOSURS just a couple years ago, organizing a few social events for the group. However, it wasn’t until the 2002 Expo that she really took a visible role. Stacey poured an unbelievable amount of energy into making the Expo a reality, jumping from task to task with an infectious enthusiasm. There is no doubt that the Expo would never have been the success that it was without Stacey’s efforts. Stacey has also been an active member of the interim Board of Directors since it formed in September 2002.
- Wunsch, Scott Scott originally founded LOSURS in 1998. At the time, he was not intending to lead the group, but that’s how it turned out, and Scott has been the guiding force behind LOSURS ever since. Most of you have probably heard this story many times, so we’ll just leave it at that.
